WASHINGTON, April 5 .- (AP)-Authoritative sources said tonight the administration would redouble efforts to re-enact processing taxes when the new $799,000.000 tax bill reaches the senate.

This was made known as senate leaders arranged to start hearings on that side of the capitol as soon as an actual bill is drafted by the house ways and means committee. The com mittee hopes to complete its hearings by tomorrow night.

Jeffries said two other patrolmen reported there were four men in the machine. They were not immediately sidentified and the army air depot at Middletown said it had no information.

Two more law suits growing out of Govenor Talmadge's control of Georgia's finances are pointed today toward the state supreme court.

Cobb Says: England Has Right Idea

By IRVIN S. COBB.

SANTA MONICA, Cal., April 5.

Maybe the English have the right idea. The Reds spout as they please—so long as they stay off the radio and take it out in spouting.

There's a story in point: In Hyde Park, where the crack-pots and clack-jaws freely may speak their pieces, an impassioned radical is in full eruption. Being a hater of kings, he would drive the royal family forth and set fire to their official London residence. A heckler quarrels with the orator; the crowd joins in, about equally divided; trouble impends. A large, calm policeman ploughs through the jam.

Liberty League Concurs in Decision 1 On AAA and Criticizes Minority

Analysis by 60 Lawyers Declares Dissenting Opinion Contrary to Same Justices' Previous Positions, Not Answer to Questions Raised by Majority.

Swer to Questions Raised by Majority.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—(P)—
In a comprehensive analysis of the supreme court's decision declaring the AAA unconstitutional, the American Liberty League today upheld the majority opinion as legally sound and severely criticizing the minority opinion as "contrary to established constitutional law."

The League's 50-page legal analysis, eiting numerous constitutional authorities and previous court decisions, was prepared by its "national lawyers committee" of 80.

R. E. Desvernine, committee chair man, said the report was designed chiefly as a guide to "members of congress in their consideration of present and future proposals for legislation in which the constitutional limitations of the general welfare clause may be involved."

One committee member, Karl D. Loos, of Washington, prepared a minority report dissenting from some of the majority's conclusions.

"An anlysis of the minority opinion by Mr. Justice Stone, and congured in by Mr. Justice Brandeis and Mr. Justice Cardozo," the Desvernine committee's report said, will demonstrate that it is based on grounds that misconceive the majority report dissenting from some of the was report said, will demonstrate that it is based on grounds that misconceive the majority report dissenting from some of the majority opinion and are contrary to established constitutional law in respects that have been thoroughly recognized since the very foundation of the republic.

LARGE AAA PAYMENTS DEFENDED BY WALLACE

Florida Corporation Paid $1,067,665 for Co-operating With Program.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—(UP)— Million-dollar benefit payments to big corporations under invalidated AAA were defended by Secretary of Agri-culture Henry A. Wallace in a report to the senate agriculture committee, made public tonight made public tonight.

The report showed a Florida sugar corporation had received the largest amount for co-operating in the AAA program—a total of $1,067,665 in three checks. A Hawaiian sugar producer got a single check for $470,313 and in all will get $1,022,037,87. Another large sugar grower in Puggin and in all will get $1,022,037.87. Another large sugar grower in Puerto Rico has been paid $961,064.

Names of the recipients of the large payments, as demanded in a resolution by Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg, republican, Michigan, were not revealed in Wallace's report. The secretary promised to furnish them if asked by the senate.

Chairman Ellison D. Smith, democrat, South Carolina, of the senate agriculture committee, which restrictly approved the Vandenberg resolution and broadened it to include the names of all those getting more than $1,000 from AAA, said tonight he would report it to the senate tomorrow and push for action this week.

It was necessary to compensate large operators at the same rate as amall farmers if the nation-wide production adjustment program of AAA was to be effective, Wallace declared.

Uniform Rates Stressed.

"The real significance of these large payments," he said, "is not in the fact that, in paying uniform rates the government made payments which varied with the number of acres or units of production involved, but rather the social and economic implications of such concentration of the ownership and control of farm land as had come about previous to the launching of the adjustment programs in 1933."

Wallace's report emphasized that large corporations had to chare their AAA benefits with their tenant farmers and with their laborers, through wage and hour standards prescribed by the administration.

The sugar program, he explained, involved much larger payments than those for any other commodities because sugar production largely is controlled by large corporations.

Thirty Puerto Rican sugar producers were listed as receiving more than $10,000 each in advance payments for 1935, two of them being over $100,000. Total payments generally are five or six times the listed advance payments, the report said.

Big Louisians Payments.

(Copyright, 1936, by United Press.) NEW YORK, April 5.—(UP)-The evil that Bruno Richard Haupt mann did lives after him and tonight it appeared that his electrocution would only be the start of another cycle of sensational events in the Lindbergh crime. Lindbergh crime.

Foremost among the prospects is that the New Jersey legislature, meeting tomorrow night, may vote to investigate everything that happened in the last six months of Hauptmann's life. The political future of Governor Harold G. Hoffman would be at stake in such an investigation. So would the réputation of the New Jersey state police, who have been accused

Mrs. Anna Hauptmann, still faithful to her husband, issued invitations to close friends tonight to attend the cremation of Hauptmann's body at 1 n.m. tomorrow in Queens cremation of Hauptmann's body at 1 p. m., tomorrow in Queens.

Hauptmann's body, dressed in the $10 suit that is given to prisoners—living and dead—when they are discharged from Trenton state prison, was in the Fresh Pond crematory at Middle Village, Queens. It arrived there last night after a wild trip, in two hearses, from the Universal Funeral Parlors in Manhattan.

Plans Are Vague. Plans Are Vague.

Mrs. Hauptmann's plans are vague, Mrs. Hauptmann's plans are vague, but it is likely that she will remain in the United States for six months or so. Her husband asked her to do so, presumably because he did not want her to give the appearance of running away from a crime of which he contended to the last he was innocent. Later she probably will go to Germany and take with her the ashes of her husband to dispose of them near Kamenz Germany where Hauptmann

New Jersey will not recover soon from this crime. Before the legislature tomorrow night will be a resolution signed by prominent citizens, who want an investigation of the Hauptmann case to determine whether and want an investigation of the Haupt-mann case to determine whether any attempt was made to "obstruct jus-tice." President Harold Dodds, of Princeton University heads the sign-ers. Their reference to "obstructing justice" was interpreted as meaning they believe Hoffman stepped over the legal limits of his gubernatorial power when he turned detective, grant-ed a reprieve and used all the weight ed a reprieve and used all the weight and authority of his office to try to keep Hauptmann alive. Hoffman said he welcomed the investigation. He wants it to go farther back than the last six months, how-ever, and take up the state police investigation that started immediately after Hauptmann's arrest. Four times he has accused the state police of framing evidence against Hauptmann, of being "careless in their work im-mediately after the Lindbergh baby was kidnaped and of failing to make an adequate search for accomplices."

Wendel Still in Jail. Wendel Still in Jall.

In Mercer county jail sits Paul H. Wendel, still accused of the crime for which Hauptmann was executed. In the adjoining county of Hunterdon there is on file at Flemington a complaint against Wendel, signed by Mrs. Hauptmann. It charges the disbarred Trenton lawyer with kidnaping the Lindbergh baby, but does not specify murder.

The complaint against Weddel was signed by Mrs. Hauptmann as a last, signed by Mrs. Hauptmann as a last, desperate gesture to try to save her husband's life. Now that he is dead, it is expected that she will not press the charge, and if she does it probably will be dropped by the Hunterdon county grand jury.

Prosecutor Anthony M. Hauck, of Hunterdon county, will not co-operate.

Hunterdon county, will not co-operate with Hoffman or anyone else who be-lieves Hauptmann to be innocent, be-yond complying with what the law Wendel is not likely to get off so

Wendel is not likely to get off so easy in Mercer county. The merder charge against him undoubtedly will be dropped and his "confession" of the Lindbergh crime will be disregarded. But there still pends against him eight charges of embezzlement. Technically, he has been a fugitive from justice since 1931 since 1931. Tomorrow

Tomorrow, two assistant district at-torneys of Kings county, New York, will return to New Jersey where they will return to New Jersey where they already have covered more than 500 miles investigating Wendel's story of being kidnaped in New York and tortured. It was under this torturing, according to Wendel, that he confessed the Lindbergh murder.

Among the persons Mrs. Hauptmann invited to the cremation are C. Lloyd Fisher. Hauptmann's lawyer; the Rev. John Matthiesen, of Trenton, the dead man's spiritual adviser; and the Rev. D. G. The prosecutor said no further effort to bring Wendel to Brooklyn to aid in the search would be made until later in the week when the New Jersey grand jury may have concluded questioning him.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

AMBITION WASHINGTON, April 5,—The Rhineland seizure by force, says Hitler, was the last of his series of blows designed to remove shackles from Deutschland. Of course, no one be-

On the contrary, there is very good reason for suspecting that the Rhineland blow was the first of a new series designed to make Deutschland the most powerful nation on the European continent.

No one really knows, but this is the accepted theory of silent men here who make it their business to know far more about what is going on around the world than the censors abroad permit to be published. VISION The next Hitler blow, as they see it, will be delivered southward, not eastward, as generally expected. It will start down through central Europe and work through the Balkans, with the shores of Turkey as its ultimate goal. The conquest will not be conducted by arms, but by cunning diplomatic force. The first move may come this summer in the form of an anschluss with Austria. It will come while England and France are in-their present mood, determined not to fight; after the Rhineland diplomatic ripples have died away; as soon as Austria has decided what she is going to be. (The arming of Austria was begun a few days ago with the passage of the new conscription act, proposing to keep 600,000 men in arms.)

Then similar economic agreements will be pressed upon Hungary, Yugoslavia and possibly even the allies of France, Czechoslovakia and Rumania. They will bring new markets to Germany, new grazing lands, the largest munitions works in the world. They would contribute to an underground empire more powerful than Bismark's. Germany would thus become the dominant nation on the continent.

At least this is the hidden vision in Hitler's mind, as perceived by those best able to perceive it from this distance.

THE WAR One crowd believes Hitler will never get beyond an Austrian anschluss. They think that will start the war. France and Italy will be aroused sufficiently then to go in and suppress Hitler before he goes further. England will side with the winner.

Another crowd places more faith in Hitler's diplomatic shrewdness. They expect him to time and conceal each of his moves as wisely as he did the seizure of the Rhineland. He will pick the time when the other nations are otherwise occupied, when they are least inclined to fight, All agree that Hitler is not ready to fight yet. Their dope is that his air force will not be ready before late in the summer. His artillery will not be fully developed until next summer. He will certainly not fight this

On the megaphone side, Directors and her general staff is by no means the brainest in Europe. She would really be no match for Germany if Poland sides with Germany, as every military man expects.

A military defeat for Russia would probably mean the end of the soviet social experiment and a return of the white Russians to power. The reds, therefore, cannot venture alone. They must shoot with France, and France is in a confused condition. Her people have been fed the dogma of fear, the doctrine of defense, but her forts are impregnable. Hitler will never run his head against them. They were so strong 22 years ago that the Kaiser did not care to try them, but outflanked them through Belgium. Now they are twice as strong and the Belgian flank gate is closed.

TECHNIQUE There were two very good unadvertised reasons why France did not try to push Germany out of the Rhineland at once. One is that her people are not in the proper mood to fight an invading war. The other is that it would have cost them upwards of Hitler's Rhineland maneuver has been played up as a diplomatic stroke, but the military brilliance of it has been overlooked. The Rhineland was sown overnight with machine-gun nests, backed by artillery That is the German way. It has not changed since the World War.

Any counter-step by the French would have been taken at heavy costs.

But the most amazing thing about it is that it was organized without a single outside government, except probably Britain, having any advance notice. The insiders say that Britain was secretly tipped by Germany as to her intentions, but even Britain did not know the troops were going to be sent in.

Note-That shows you how much the other nations really know about what Germany is doing. Also, it is giving French statesmen opportunity for speculation as to how close an ally Britain is. The Frenchmen are already sorry that they were so indifferent last summer when England was trying to get them to help corner Mussolini.

These inner slants, summed up, indicate a condition which could be saved peacefully only by a master diplomatic hand. Those in Europe now do not seem to be big enough. (Copyright, 1938, by Paul Mallon.)

The world's largest man-made lake is taking form. Behind gigantic Boulder Dam's mass of concrete, Boulder Lake is spreading through deep canyons and across deserts. Originally planned for power, irricarinany planned for power, irri-gation, and flood control, Boulder Lake also is developing into a scenic gem of first rank, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., head-quarters of the National Geographic Society.

As the water rises, a foot or two daily, little wingless creatures scurry up hillsides to escape, only to find themselves marooned on rapidly shrinking islands. When these islands are gradually submerged, the sparse shrubbery protruding from their tops bears strange "fruit" of little rodents and reptiles.

We do not worship the hero himself, but the image of him, idealized imagination, that is in our own minds. Napoleon sacrificed an army of 600,000 men in Russia. His stupid vanity and blind folly caused the death of every man. Yet the starving wretches, fallen in the snow and too weak to rise again, lifted their neads to cheer him as he rode by.

What did they cheer? His brutal selfishness? His heartless cruelty? His stubborn and disastrous folly? There was nothing else to cheer.

But they did not cheer him at all, or even see him. They cheered a demi-god, created by themselves, who existed only in their imagina-tions. A professional butcher had led them to the slaughter pen, and their dying eyes saw only the halo they had made for him. A revolution made Napoleon. Other revolutions made heroes of three men who rule great nations today.

These three were laborers—mechanics—with little formal education and ordinary minds. Given opportunity, ambition, conceit, the gift of gab and the ability to do murder with a clear conscience, millions of America's mechanics could do all that these three have done. Yet these are great men and the world stands in awe of them! Great Withdrawal of American soldiers from far eastern countries, strict adherence to the "good neighbor" policy of the Roosevelt administration, the upbuilding of America's manpower and the maintenance of an adequate and efficient defense force are cited as the best safeguards of the nation's peace in a letter written by Major General George Van Horn Moseley, commander of the fourth corps area, in a letter written by him in reply to an inquiry received from another state.

General Moseley's interesting program for keeping the country out of war is outlined as follows in his reply, as follows:

There are 1,500,000 more men under arms now than in 1914 when the most arms now than in 1914 when the most terrible war of all history broke out. In Russia, where Josef Stalin is building the mightiest war machine the world has ever known, the standing army has been announced at 1,300,000, but 2,500,000 more trained men could be thrown into action within three weeks. The soviet air might is represented by 3,000 first line planes—the claws of the Russian bear.

Germany, keeping a sharp eye on the "Russian menace," has 600,000 soldiers in uniform, trained to machine-like precision, and could easily call up 1,000,000 more in event of war. By midsummer, the nazi nation will have an air force expected to match Russia's, plane for plane.

During the next 12 months, Britain is expected to spend $1,000 a minute on armament.

Navies of the European powers are considerably smaller than at the outbreak of the war, because of a construction "holiday," but that holiday is over now and the shippards of Britain, France, Russia, Germany and Italy are again working feverishly.

Germany is expected to go the limit in submarine huilding, in which shis allowed full parity with Britain under the Anglo-German naval treaty of last June. Italy soon will have 82 submarines to sweep the Mediterranean. Russia has a great fleet of modern submarines concentrated in the Far East to guard against Japan.

There are as many kinds of trucking jobs as there are trucks. Some call for speed . . . some for power . . . some for endurance. But they all call for low cost. That explains why the trend to Fords is not limited to any single group of truck operators.

A. F. Rechtzigel of St. Paul, Minnesota, reports that his Ford V-8 Truck has gone 52,000 miles, hauling average loads of 9 tons. His total repair bill has been $5.90. His case is typical of the low repair costs reported by Ford owners.

But low repair costs are only a part of Ford V-8 Truck savings. Similar savings are reported in fuel and oil, tires, taxes, insurance, license fees, wages, depreciation, interest charges, accident repairs, appearance up-keep and capital investment.

Your operation may not call for heavy loads or high mileage. But it does call for low cost. Call a Ford dealer and set a date for an "on-the-job" test. Find out what a Ford V-8 Truck will do under your own operating conditions.

Golf Meet Postponed; Final 36 Holes Today 'Rain or Shine'

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 5.—Bobby Jones talked some gold today as an April rain splashed outside and washed out the finals of the third annual masters' golf tournament.

His own idea of why the tournament fiber is gone from his game is that he no longer can concentrate on the competition.

HOUSTON, Texas, April 5.—(P)— Bryan Grant, of Atlanta, defending champion, and Wilmer Allison, of Austin, the nation's top ranking players, coasted to victories today in the cameras, of whispers in the gallery, the words from some member of the gallery, did not break through this armor of concentration.

Today it isn't there. As he steps to the tee or addresses the ball in some difficult spot on the course, there is in his mind the question some well-meaning friend asked as they walked to the ball; there is the sound of cameras, of whispers and there is the feel of movement in the

Once the steel-like concentration protected him. To-

L'DOBBY JONES =

And that explains, in a large measure, why his game isn't what it was. In practice he can score a 64 while playing withwhat it was. In practice he can score a 64 while playing without a gallery and without any outside interruptions. But the concentration is missing from his tournament game. And concentration is not something to be put on or taken off like a coat. It is an intangible, yet necessary asset attained only in the fire of competition.

THEY WERE SAYING TODAY.

They were saying today, waiting for Monday and the final holes, that if Bobby Jones entered the winter tournaments he would regain that old concentration, the old tournament toughness, as Bill Tilden once defined this competitive concentration.

And Bobby Jones smiled and agreed it might. But he won't do that of course. He won every honor golf won't do that of course. He won every honor golf had to offer not once but often and finally, in one year, he won them all together.

And then he announced he would not again attempt to play

He plays in this one tournament on his own course.

But he will not again attempt to become a tournamer golfer. He will continue to play here in this tournament. If his game gets no better through a few practice rounds then it will get no better. He is interested in golf, vitally so. But not in tournament golf.

THE REAL TEST.

It struck me Saturday afternoon as I watched him come of the last green. I was looking at very much of a man.

Because he does not like to play badly. The iron has been in his soul in these last two days but he has taken it with that same rare sporting spirit and that same fine way of his that no one has noticed any difference.

And the slant that came to me was that in all his great championship days when he dominated the golf tournaments of the world, he never showed any more, if as much, courage and fineness than he is showing here.

This is the real test. And with his concentration gone and the game going badly, he remains the same Bobby Jones whom the people of two continents came to know and respect. The game that was once a thing of artistic achievement, isn't any more. He can't like that. Yet he remains Bobby Jones.

I cannot understand the clamor to have him come back, to have him play tournament golf again. It would be pleasant to see him winning again. But after all, his profession is not tournament golf. There is nothing for him to come back to and

It showed then in his face. It was set, intent on the game and nothing else. The noise of cameras of whispers in the gale.

FINANCIAL LOSS. If it hasn't been cold or rain, it has been both. Today's washout was a big blow to the Sunday visitors as well as the tournament committee, now facing a heavy financial loss on the year's affair, bus-loads of golf fans arrived from various points in Georgia, and South Carolina only to find the postponement sign up. Meanwhile, a half dozen or more players decided to pull out. Japan's ambassador, Hirosis Saito, left by train today for Washington, disappointed at his inability to stay over for the finals. "Maybe it's because we opened the course on Friday the 13th," ruefully remarked Robert T. Jones Jr., president of the club and one-time world champion whose third annual "comeback" on the course he helped design thas fallen far short of expectations, thereby adding to the unhappy developments.

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 5.—(P)—To the accumulated woes and disappointments of the Augusta National's All-Star golfing show was added another deluge today.

The final 36 holes was washed out by an all-day downpour, thus disrupting the schedule for the second time, costing the club at least $5,000 in Sunday gate receipts and postponing the tournament finish until tomorrow.

the tournament finish until tomorrow, "rain or shine," regardless of damage or difficulties caused by the latest storm. The short 12th hole, fringed by a creek, was nearly flooded three days ago. It may be unplayable tomorrow morning, even if its isolation can be solved by using a rowboat. The alternative of playing another hole twice may be resorted to into order to avoid further postponement of a tournament that has now been "jinxed" by the weather for three straight years.

Cooper's nearest rivals, Bobby Cruickshank, of Richmond, Va., and Denny Shute, of Boston, had 144 each. The professionals were in complete charge at the halfway stage, with prize money of $5,000 at stake on what transpires tomerrow or whenever the tournament is completed.

Cooper, pace-setter from the start, was a heavy favorite tonight to carry off first prize money of $1,500, especially with prospects slim for a resumption of yesterday's par-busting. Seven professionals were within six shots of the leader. They included Gene Sarazen, 1935 winner, who shared scoring honors yesterday with Craig Wood. Each equalled the course record with a 67.

Players who withdrew, all with tallies over the 160 mark, for 36 holes, included Joe Turnesa, of West Hartford, Conn.: Vincent Eidred, of Pittsburgh; Fred Haas Jr., of New Orleans: Jack Munger, of Dallas; Jess Sweetser, of New York, and Fred McLeod, of Washington, D. C.

Play is scheduled to begin at 8:30 a. m. (E. S. T.) tomorrow.

Crackers Meet Phils Tuesday

JIMMY GALVIN

Crackers, Needing Work, Will Have Long Drill Today at Park.

By Jack Troy.

Even though it requires the persuasive powers of a couple of Philadelphia lawyers to stop the rain, the Crackers are determined to go through with their final exhibition game of the season against Burt Shotton's Phillies Tuesday afternoon at Ponce de Leon park.

So much rain is not doing anybody any good, especially the Cracker club. The weather at the Gulfport camp was none too good, but the club returned home in good shape.

It so happens, however, that two days have passed without the league champions having struck a lick of work. And that is not so good for the veteran pitchers. The young fellows—and most of the Cracker players are young fellows—can stand a couple of off days. But opening day is not far away. It's Saturday.

TO DRILL TODAY.

TO DRILL TODAY. There will be a long drill today at

There will be a long drill today at Ponce de Leon park, come what may. And that includes the rain. Unless, of course, it is such a rain as yesterday. Even self-respecting water fowl seek cover on such days.

Manager Eddie Moore is congratulating himself on having such a fine pair of catchers as Paul Richards and Jim Galvin. They both were secured for the Atlanta club by President Earl Mann.

for the Atlanta club by President Earl Mann.

Richards, the regular receiver, has won the acclaim of Manager Moore.

"That fellow," declared Moore yesterday. "is a great receiver. And he can hit.

"Take that Galvin. He's a good catcher and he pounds the ball. I am going to use Galvin a lot as a pinch hitter. He ought to help us a lot with his hitting."

PITCHERS LIKE 'EM. PITCHERS LIKE 'EM.

The pitchers feel the same as Manager Moore does about the improvement in the catching department, which is the biggest single improvement in the Cracker club.

They like the way both Richards and Galvin handle them.

The thought presistently occurs that and Galvin handle them.

The thought persistently occurs that in the middle of last season Jim Galvin had thrown up the sponge and returned home. He was through with baseball. He was then playing with Richmond, in the Piedmont league.

Then the new class ruling was adopted in the Southern league. President Earl Mann had been watching Galvin's career. He opened negotiations immediately for Galvin.

GREAT TRADE.

GREAT TRADE.

GREAT TRADE.

And so there was a trade. The Crackers swapped left-handed Chester Martin for him. And Galvin was pleased beyond words to come to the Crackers. It is the only minor league club, he says, that could have persuaded him to change his mind about retiring. He's a "B" boy under the new class rating.

Galvin is delighted to be with the Crackers, even in a second-string role. He knows he can hit. And does.

There are a number of Southern league clubs that could use Galvin in a first-string role. And there is not a single one that has a catcher who could be considered for the No. 1 pinch-hitting role. Those kind are scarce.

pinch-hitting role. Those kind are scarce.

Bill Schmidt and Bobby Durham are to draw the pitching assignments against the Phillies, according to present plans. They'll work on a half-and-half basis.

The Yankees pulled freight yesterday for Nashville, where weather permitting, they engage those Vols in little Sulphur Dell this afternoon. More important to the Yankees will be the scheduled contract signing of Ben Chapman, who has agreed to terms and who will sign the 1936 pact when he joins the McCarthymen today in the Tennessee city.

Cochrane has just received the bad news that he must wear spectacles while reading hereafter. Gehringer, whose back has been sore for several dars, learned that he had dislocated two small bones in his back while trying to keep a small child, who had wandered onto the playing field, from being struck by the ball. Assistant Trainer Dick Bloom said both would be ready for action in the season opener at Cleveland April 14.

A Pinch-Hitting Catcher

The above picture was snapped by George Cornett as Jim Galvin, fine second-string catcher of the Crackers, was talking the situation over with Paul Richards, regular receiver, at the Gulfport camp. The two of them give Atlanta the strongest catching staff in the league. And, in addition, Manager Moore has announced he will use Galvin, a hard hitter, a great deal in a pinch-hitting role.

Gomez Almost Left His Hurling Arm in Atlanta

Goofy Castillian's Joke Boomeranged During 1935 Visit of New York Yankees Here.

By Jack Troy.

How one of the most valuable pitching arms in baseball was almost in Atlanta a year ago, was revealed yesterday by Max Kase, one of the better New York sports writers. And this is not counting the cold weather exhibition against Bill Schmidt that left both of them ineffective for some time.

There was nothing doing outside. History had repeated at the expense of the Yankees. They were here last year for Saturday and Sunday games, and both were cancelled. It was because of rain and cold weather last year. It rained both days,

This year, however, it was too cold to play Saturday and it rained on Sunday. There was, as said, nothing doing outside. Even the smarter ducks were casting anxious eyes about for rafts.

And so Kase told the story of Vernon (Goofy) Gomez and his snake.

It was an imported imitation from

CRACKERS LACK REAL WEAKNESS

Eddie Moore, of the Atlanta Crack-ers, was the manager who could find nothing to complain of. "Can't see any pronounced weakness at present," he wired the paper.

"Stronger by 75 per cent in the catching department," the wire said. "Rookies on club should benefit by year's experience in this league."

Lance Richbourg, of the Nashville Vols, said that he will be able to make out all right if he can find four dependable starters in his collection of nine pitchers.

other comment: Other comment:

Larry Gilbert, New Orleans—"Our club is nearly the same as last year only I think our pitching staff is a little stronger with Pensmore and Perrin added to Thomas and Wetherell. That gives us four good Class A pitchers. Think we will be in first four all year."

Fred Hoffman, Memphis—"Our club stronger than last season with Touchstone, Nelson, Mooney, Frazler, Molligan as pitchers. They would strengthen any club, Haley, new Class C catchet, looks great. Doubtful positions at present are second base and centerfield."

With the opening of the season only five days away, Southern association managers believed tonight they have assembled pretty good ball clubs, and one, at least, could see no "pronounced weakness" at all in his team.

In a roundup of managerial opinion made by the Tennesseean, most of them, however, revealed a few real or potential trouble spots and some suggested gemedies already being tried out.

Of course no woman is satisfie Of course no woman is satisfied with the status quo; if she were, she'd be ready to die. This doesn't mean she is perennially unhappy. On the contrary, her keeping something ahead that she is working toward is a healthy sign. Planning improvements and step-ups on her wardrobe, her home (and her garden if she has one), is a favorite feminine sport that every wife feels at liberty to indulge in.

Mama turns the pages of advertising in papers and magazines, sees herself got up in the costumes of the mannequins, riding in the costly cars, swathed in furs like the pictures before her. She rolls out the magic carpets on her floors, hangs rich draperies at her windows, equips her kitchen with the latest conveniences. She spends thousands of dollars in an hour's fancy when, as a matter of fact, she is probably paying fifty cents to the bank each month because her bank account doesn't average a balance of a hundred dollars daily. Naturally mention of these luxuries creeps into her conversation. Sometimes she sighs audibly for the pretties and conveniences she has been playing with. Papa must learn not to take these sighs too seriously, not to attach too much importance to mama's wish—thinking out loud.

Isn't he sitting across the living room from her doing the same thing? He is thinking how wonderful it would be if he could uncover and grab a fat piece of business that is now going to his competitor. He is moving into higger and better offices, employing additional stenographers, putting new salesmen on the road, or replacing obsolete machinery with latest models, decreasing sost of production and increasing output.

Then surely he shouldn't be annoyed with his wife or feel any reproach in her suggestion that she would like to have this, or do that, which is beyond their means. The truth is that were he a multi-millionaire he couldn't give her so much that she would cease to yearn for something out of reach.

Surely there are greedy women who cry "Give, give," and hound their poor husband for what they cannot afford to give. But the most reasonable wife, the most economical, the one most considerate of her husband's feelings and of his pocketbook keeps a long list of things she wants to do, places she wants to go, improvements she wants to make and possessions she wants to acquire, when and if there is cash to cover. here is cash to cover.

Fighting Jefferson's Battle With New Weapons, Agar Declares.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 5.—(P) Herbert Agar, author and editorial writer on the Courier-Journal, which is owned by Robert W. Bingham, ambassador to Great Britain, jibed at udden republican tenderness for sudden republican tenderness for Thomas Jefferson and states' rights in a radio speech here tonight.

Agar, author of the Pulitzer prize winning book, "Land of the Free," and of "The People's Choice," said the leaning to Jefferson and states' rights happened because the states are too weak to cope with the great financial empires of the modern world. He said the democrats in strengthening the federal government are fighting it with the only weapon that can still work."

States' rights was once a weapon in the war for the little man, Agar said, and "was a good weapon when Jefferson used it. It was still a good weapon when Jackson used it. But since the fourteenth amendment, since the era of huge financial amalgamations, it's been a broken weapon and a rusty one."

He declared the democrats would be behaving absurdly if they used the old hooken weapon of the old hooken weapon grantment's

Agar said it was the republicans, or rather their ancestors, the Hamiltonians, who invented the whole doctrine of loose construction of the constitution in the first place, for the purpose of strengthening the hand of the federal government. They have discarded it, he declared, because the fourteenth amendment, adopted after the Civil War, ended states' rights once for all "and now big business feels it only necessary to weaken the central government to be free from all political interference."

TIT IS generally known that grocery shopping and beauty parlors take up a large majority of time in the lives of young married women in Atlanta or, for that matter, anywhere else. However, Sally has found one prominent Atlanta matron, who has solved that difficulty to the "Nth" degree. For beauty-seekers in a well-known Northside beauty parlor were quite astounded to see a fellow patron, half hidden beneath a huge drying machine, seated beside a clerk from a neighboring grocery store, and 'food of the week."

Unluckily, since the whirring machine around her head made so much noise, the young matron didn't realize that she spoke so loudly. "I'll take a pound of spin-ach," she screamed, "and are your beans fresh? Can you hear me?" she yelled more loudly. The clerk nodded his head positively. "Well, that's funny," she shrieked. "I can car you!" Of course, everyone in the beauty parlor was on the verge of hysterics by this time, but the young matron couldn't imagine why everyone smiled and looked at her, and so she continued quite nonchalantly to give her order. "By the way," she conclud-ed, "have you any brains?"

ELEANOR ROOSEVELT

WASHINGTON, Friday.—Twenty ladies of every age, from debutantes to white-haired grandmothers, who had attended the post-graduate class at Todhunter school this winter, were here for dinner last night. They were very much interested in the time they had spent in the senate gallery where they heard a discussion in which Senator Robinson and Senator Miss Elizabeth Branch. Coreland participated. They also visited the office of Mrs. Caroline by designing the strings of the senate galler, whose marriage to the office of Mrs. Caroline by the senate galler, whose marriage to the senate galler, whose marriage to the senate gallers. Copeland participated. They also visited the office of Mrs. Caroline O'Day, a member of the house of representatives, and had a talk with her. I read them a letter which had come to me from a farm woman in the southwest, in which she told me practically her whole life's history. Of the many letters which have come to me, this is perhaps the most dra-matic and touching from the point of view of courage and unselfishness preserved through many difficulties and disasters. I was interested to see how it affected this varied group. Life's concidences are often extraordinary, for when I finished, one of those present said: "I was at high school at that place for two years and I know the country well. Miss Dickerman had asked to have the film of the 'Life of Louis Pasteur," and so I saw it for a second time, but it is a film that one can see twice and find more things to think about the second time than one was able to take in at the first showing. What a remarkable picture of a scientist's life, and what unselfishness it required, not only in the individual, but in all those around him, to make possible the advancement of human knowledge. I listened all night with some trepidation to the wind, and read with sorrow this morning of the havoc wrought in some of our southern states. The elements do seem to be dealing us many blows at the present time. Perhaps they are trying to show us that our only strength lies in the realms of mind and spirit. It has been a fairly busy morning and I am about to swim with my grandchildren. The Todhunter group comes for a buffet luncheon, and then Mrs. Martin Vogel is coming to see the White House with some young people. I hope to have a chat with her before we start for New-

The DEBUNKER By John Harvey Furbay, Ph.D.

The lead pencil is another example of objects that are named incorrectly. There is not a bit of lead in a lead pencil. The black substance which makes the mark when we write, is graphite, a form of carbon. There are various kinds of graphite, with varying degrees of hardness. Another wrong idea about pencils is, the belief that they are made of a single piece of wood with a hole in the center. Pencils are made of two pieces of wood glued together.

Before she left, the blond secretary said her immediate plans were concerned with rest and rebuilding her health.

Her sister-in-law, Mrs. Gustave Stretz, said Miss Stretz will visit her friends, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Dinehart, on their farm at Penn Yan, N. Y., in the Finger Lakes district. In the office of her attorney, Samuel Leibowitz, the 32-year-old university graduate said that etching, riding horseback, playing the piano and walking would be her principal recreations.

Social work, in which her interest was brought out at her trial in love letters she wrote to the German financier, might become her occupation, she said.

While she was in prison, the women confined there had aroused her in-tery, under direction of Harry G.

Poole. The rites were originally planned for 2 o'clock yesterday.

Clothed in the ceremonial raiment of high priestess, Kali Bwana awaited, with bated breath, the sum-mons to the cannibalistic orgy of the Leopard Men. There was no hope of escape. She must do the bidding to Lulimi, or be devoured by the leopard which was a god.

Old Timer, who was to be the victim of the can-nibal feast, was dragged roughly from his dungeon in the secret recesses of the inner temple, and marched into the mammoth hall, where the fiend-ish subchiefs of the criminal brotherhood were

All about him savage eyes, hungry eyes, gazed upon him from beneath horrible leopard head helmets. Wavering torchlight illuminated an ceric array of human skulls. Old Timer looked at them and murmured with a touch of bravado: "I'll be joining you fellows pretty soon"

The white man was convinced now that Bobolo's promises to help him escape were false. Since he had been brought into this holy of holies, he was sure that no power on earth could save him, for no one other than a Leopard Man could look upon these things and live!
